WWII Combat Glider Restoration Project

Jim Johns has the neatest project: Restore a World War II Combat Glider. Such a project saves a piece of our national history and leaves a legacy for the future. Starting from just about scratch, and realizing that there are only 7 of these gliders left in the world, this is a piece of history worth restoration. And, should be part of our children/grand children's education. If you'd like to get in on the project, find out more, take a tour of the reconstruction hanger, or make a contribution, contact Jim Johns ats 952-881-1797
